Takes Over Supply in Salineville Mines.

East Liverpool is facing a near coal famine as the result of the walkout Friday afternoon of approximately 1,000 union coal miners in Columbiana county in compliance with the nation-wide bituminous strike order effective at midnight Friday.

Men affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America employed in mines in the Salineville, West Point and Salem districts left the workings at the close of the day shift Friday afternoon. Saturday practically every mine in Columbiana county deserted save for a few shift foremen and others retained at their posts to operate pumps or make necessary repairs.

Every preparation has been made by local operators in Columbiana

NO COAL MINERS HERE AFFECTED BY STRIKE

East Liverpool has no coal miners affected by the nation-wide walkout of bituminous operators called Friday at midnight, it developed Saturday.

The Island Run coal mine along Beaver creek, owned by the Ohio River Power company, was the only mine in this vicinity employing East Liverpool workmen, but it has been idle since last spring. The shaft was developed by the traction company and later sold to the Ohio River Power company. The cost of operating the mine was so great that it was deemed advisable to close the shaft and contract for coal elsewhere.

county for a protracted coal strike, although practically every large mine will be kept in readiness to resume at a few hours' notice. Coal mined Friday in Salineville was confiscated by the railroad administration Saturday morning and shipped into rail centers.

The big mines of the Kirk-Dunn Coal company in West Point, with a daily output of 1,000 tons, have been stripped clean of all mined coal and Saturday were without any available supply on hand. Coal mined in West Point is consumed by the Erie railroad, street railway lines and

JEFFERSON CO. IS HARD HIT

Seven Thousand Miners In
Steubenville District Obey Strike Call.

STEUBENVILLE, Nov. 1.—Reports from throughout Jefferson county, one of the leading coal producing sections of the state, show that practically all of the 7,000 miners employed quit work.

Only a small number of wagon loads are working. The coal stripping companies are still at work, the shovel men not acceding to the request of the mine workers to join the strike.

The property of the coal stripping companies is under guard of deputy sheriffs today.

The surplus coal stock of the Steubenville mines and vicinity is already exhausted and hundreds of families to day are without fuel.

Mills and factories in the Steubenville district can operate ten days and then ten thousand men will be thrown into idleness.

Community Street Dance, Boxing Beouts and Mardi Gras In
"Court of Honor" Saturday Evening.

East Liverpool ex-service men who were not awarded medals Friday afternoon can receive the insignia at the office of Attorney W. H. Vodrey in the Potters' Savings and Loan building, Washington streets, from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 8 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

More than 900 medals were given ex-service men at the reviewing stand, Broadway, Friday afternoon. The medals are the gift of the city in appreciation of the services rendered by the soldiers, sailors and marines.

Auto Upset; None Hurt

Seven members of the family of S. H. Clapsaddle, St. Clair avenue, narrowly escaped injury when an automobile in which they were riding turned turtle as it was negotiating a turn at the intersection of Young's Ferry and St. Clair avenue at noon Friday.

East Liverpool's reception to its returned service men was made a two-day affair when intermittent rains Friday afternoon and evening caused postponement of a part of the day's program until Saturday night. A masquerade street dance, boxing tournament and Mardi Gras will feature Saturday night's celebration.

A special meeting of the committee on arrangements was held at noon Saturday, when it was decided to continue the celebration. Unfavorable weather Saturday night alone can check the evening's program, it was announced.

The masquerade street dance, to be staged under auspices of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion, will be confined to the court of honor

SITUATION IN COAL FIELD TIE-UP SATURDAY

Early reports from the bituminous coal fields were that the union miners obeyed the national strike call and that approximately 400,000 were idle Saturday.

"I am surprised for I thought the strike was crushed," was the ironic comment of John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America, in Indianapolis.

Government officials in Washington moved swiftly to protect the public, but no action had been taken Saturday morning on the federal injunction secured at Indianapolis restraining the union officials from aiding the national strike.

Trouble is feared in West Virginia and nearly 1,000 soldiers have been sent into the state. About 40,000 union miners in the West Virginia coal fields went out but thousands of others are unorganized.

Nearly 75,000 men were reported out in the great soft coal fields of Pennsylvania.

Contiguous reports of walkouts were received from the various coal fields during Saturday.

BOTH SIDES IN BIG STRIKE "SIT TIGHT"

Next Move In Miners' Walkout Is Expected from Washington—Leaders of Strikers
Refuse to Comment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 1.—Both government officials and executives of the United Mine Workers in Indianapolis—the seat of the coal controversy in view of the fact that the international offices of the miners' organization are located here and federal action thwarting additional moves in the strike was taken here—were "sitting tight" today and it was evident that the next move would be from Washington.

C. B. Ames, sent to Indianapolis by Attorney General Palmer to ask for the injunction against the miners' officials, is on his way back to Washington and this was taken as an indication that the next move by the government would be taken in the capital.

President is "Comfortable."
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—President Wilson is "very comfortable" it was stated at the white house today.

50,000 OHIO MINERS OBEY STRIKE CALL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 1.—It is estimated by G. W. Savage, secretary of the Ohio division, United Mine Workers of America, that there are between 40,000 and 50,000 union miners idle in the district this morning. Every union organization complied with the strike order, according to the information received by Savage at the Columbus headquarters.

He would make no statement regarding the action of Acting President John L. Lewis, except to say that the miners are within their constitutional rights in striking.

fers from Shock.

AGED WOMAN IS HURT IN FALL

Suffering from shock following a fall from the rear porch of the Dr. W. J. Grimes residence, Mulberry street, East End, Thursday evening, Mrs. Christine Conley, aged 85 years, was slowly improving Saturday.

The aged woman slipped while descending the porch steps, alighting on her left side. Her left arm was fractured at the shoulder. Medical attention was rendered by Drs. W. J. Grimes and R. J. Marshall.

She would make no statement regarding the action of Acting President John L. Lewis, except to say that the miners are within their constitutional rights in striking.

Mrs. Conley is the mother of Pauline Mason Conley and Mrs. W. J. Grimes.

TROOPS AT ARSENAL READY FOR EMERGENCY

Hubbell, the commandant, said he could not discuss the matter, tell where the orders originated or give the reason back of the move. CLOSE GAP IN LINCOLN WAY

Contractors Complete Mile Stretch of Roadway In St. Clair Township.

Another gap in the Lincoln highway in Columbiana county was closed Saturday when contractors completed the construction of a mile stretch of concrete just beyond Stop 55 in St. Clair township.

The new piece of roadway will be opened to traffic November 10. A stretch of about 600 feet still remains to be completed on another section of the roadway in Madison township will be ready the latter part of next week, Inspector T. K. Moffett stated Saturday.

When this section is completed, the Lincoln highway will be ready for traffic between this city and Brown's crossing.

The other five are pinned down by debris and workers are clearing the way to bring them to the surface.

The work of bringing out the bodies has been retarded by the flames which during the early morning hours gained headway in the vicinity of entry 15 where the bodies were found.

The other thirteen bodies are believed to be just beyond where the first seven were found hidden by a great pile of debris.

The workers were gaining at 8 o'clock in their efforts to control the flames and arrangements also are being made to furnish the workers with fresh air so they can work without gas helmets. This will facilitate the work of bringing out the bodies.

Rescue workers predicted today that all of the bodies will be brought out within a few hours.

CITY IS QUIET ON HALLOWEEN

No Thefts Reported—Few Arrests Made by Police.

Despite the fact that East Liverpool was invaded by thousands of visitors Friday, not a theft or housebreak was reported to police headquarters, Chief of Police Hugh McFernott declared Saturday.

Every precaution was taken by the police department to safeguard property and valuables during the homecoming celebration Friday afternoon and evening. Close watch was maintained in the congested downtown districts for pickpockets, while police were scattered over the outlying residence district to guard the deserted homes.

A few drunks were arrested during Friday afternoon and night.

LOCAL YARDS

smaller industries in Youngstown. Sullivansville coal is shipped largely to Kent for the use of the Erie railroad, while coal mined in the Salem district is consumed locally.

The tie-up of the soft coal industry finds East Liverpool practically unprepared for a prolonged walkout. A majority of the larger potties have about a month's supply of coal on hand. This will be used chiefly to fire boilers in their engine rooms as gas is still in use for the firing of kilns.

The Enterprise Coal company's yard down town was almost empty of coal Saturday, less than a hundred bushels of the commodity being available for distribution. The company has 12 cars of coal in transit from mines in Allegheny county, Pa., it was stated Saturday, but fear was expressed these would be confiscated by the railroad administration and diverted to other channels.

Three carloads of coal consigned to the Enterprise company, have sufficient coal to heat them road yards. The railroad officials have refused to place the cars in the company's yards for distribution pending orders from the Pennsylvania railroad office in Pittsburgh relative to their disposition.

The W. T. Anderson coal yards in the East End had between 1,500 and 2,000 bushels of coal on hand Saturday, less than three days' normal distribution.

Public schools in the East End, supplied by the Anderson company, have sufficient coal to heat them for two weeks, provided the weather remains moderate. The small supply of coal on hand in the East End will be apportioned among orders now standing on the company's books, Mr. Anderson stated Saturday.

The Andrews company, operating a wagon switch of coal delivery, was without coal Saturday. The Kinsey wagon mines, just north of the city, have a quantity of coal on hand, but the shortage of loaders caused the mines to lay off several of their men a short time ago until the surplus on hand could be removed from the mine mouth. The output of wagon mines in this vicinity would not be a "drop in the bucket," a coal dealer said Saturday in the event outside shipments of coal are stopped. The City hospital had sufficient fuel on hand for two weeks provided the weather remains moderate. Four or five carloads of coal are available at the water works plant in the East End, a sufficient quantity to operate the utility for eight or ten days.

A large quantity of ham and weiner sandwiches, soft drinks and other light refreshments was distributed to service men from stands manned by Red Cross women and mothers of ex-soldiers.

Several thousand grotesquely attired masqueraders frolicked over the downtown streets Friday night in defiance of a heavy downpour of rain. "Open house" was observed in the Knights of Columbus and Moose lodge rooms and at the Y. M. C. A. It was estimated that approximately 5,000 persons visited the K. of C. rooms during the afternoon and evening.

Stillwell's orchestra furnished a dance program for the event.

ROBINSON STILL LEADING AS STAR JOCKEY OF SEASON

NEW YORK—Little Clifford Robinson, the youngster who has led all the jockeys in the country throughout the summer, still is well in the fore, and there is small chance of his losing unless he meets with an accident.

Robinson has ridden more horses than any other jockey this season, which is probably the main reason why he has ridden more winners. The youngster was a great disappointment when he came East to ride at the Saratoga meeting. He appeared here to be only an ordinary rider, but in Maryland and Kentucky Robinson has done exceedingly well. Johnny Loftus, as usual, has the highest percentage of winning mounts. He still is in a class well above the other riders, despite the many glaring errors he has recently committed.

WILLIAM FARNUM IN FILM AT AMERICAN

William Farnum, the William Fox star, made a truly dramatic sensation lately, without intending it, in the Fox studios, when filming his latest photoplay, "Wolves of the Night," which calls for a portrayal of insanity—a strong powerful man suddenly driven insane.

When Farnum was picturing these particular scenes for the William Fox production, appearing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the American theater, working them up to the artistic perfection for which he always aims, he held a spellbound audience in the studio.

When Farnum was picturing these particular scenes for the William Fox production, appearing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the American theater, working them up to the artistic perfection for which he always aims, he held a spellbound audience in the studio.

In making this scene Farnum's portrayal was intensely realistic and distinctly out of the ordinary. Women present grew pale, men stood absorbed and one little extra girl gulped aloud. He seemed to be in very fact the maniac he played.

FEATURE PHOTPLAY COMING TO STRAND

A magnificent picturization of "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," by Hall Caine, the most famous novel by the Manx author, will be seen at the Strand theater next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Hugh Ford, one of the most experienced of stage and screen producers, went to California to make the picture with a powerful cast which includes Katherine MacDonald, Milton Sills, Theodore Roberts, Jack Holt, Fritzi Brunette, Katherine Griffith and others.

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me" was produced upon the stage by Derwent Hall Caine, son of the author, in 1917, in Boston with success. As a novel it outsold all other works of Hall Caine.

As a picture it is one of the screen's greatest triumphs. The tremendous story of Mary's struggles after being sacrificed upon the altar of wedlock to a man she hates is unforgettable and as the story covers a wide field—Egypt, Africa, India, England and the South Polar regions—it will be not only powerful dramatically but colorful and fascinating in every other way.

BRYANT WASHBURN IN "SOMETHING TO DO"

Audiences have gotten so used to seeing Bryant Washburn in roles depicting the "easy guy" that they are going to be considerably surprised when they see him in "Something to Do," in which he isn't a soft guy at all, but a lively active young fellow who manages to mix into and clean up a lot of complicated scrapes. It will be shown at the Diamond theater Saturday.

When the picture starts, the hero is a young millionaire suffering from ennui, brought about by lack of occupation. He is the real stuff, however, but he has always been too pampered to ever do anything. When he consults a doctor, however, who inspects him with his lack of pep, he wakes up and starts things, and keeps them

CLEAN UP VACANT LOTS.

During the war many a formerly vacant lot became a vegetable garden. Unsightly weeds and piles of rubbish gave place to neat rows of peas and beans and sweet corn. By contrast the unfortunate lots still left to the empty tin cans and rank weeds and grasses became even more of an eyesore than before.

The fire menace of these lots is even more serious than the injury to the beauty of a street, and the old tin cans and broken dishes hold just enough stagnant rain water to make fine breeding places for mosquitoes. From every standpoint, whether of health, beauty, public safety or utility, these vacant lot dumps and weed beds should be eliminated.

Of course, the best time to cut down weeds is just before they go to seed, thus preventing the spreading of noxious plants over neighboring lawns and gardens. But any time is a good time to combat the weed menace, so that if earlier opportunities have been neglected, the present furnishes an excellent chance to do this useful work.

Every neighborhood that harbors one of these bolshevik gardens should get busy before the snow falls to cut out the weeds. Here is a fine activity for Boy Scouts to direct and participate in. With returning spring the new crop of weeds should be destroyed as frequently as it tries to make a fresh start. Keeping them down grows easier right along if steady, consistent work is done. The final reward of tidy, clean lots where the youngsters can play in safety or where gardens of flowers or delicious vegetables may thrive, is more than worth the thought and effort of citizens of the community.

ABOLISHING TOBACCO.

The Farm Women's National Congress wants congress to prohibit the growing of tobacco in the United States. Not that the women are particularly set against smoking, they explain. Personally most of them don't object to it. But they are concerned about the use of 1,375,000 acres of good land devoted to tobacco when it might be used for raising food. At a time when there is a world-wide food shortage, they argue, it is the duty of the American people to leave nothing undone to supply the need, and so they want to sacrifice tobacco for food crops.

Will congress do it? The answer may be given unhesitatingly—congress will not do it. Congress has too much regard for the good will of the male of the species to lend itself to any such appeal, however worthy the plan and the cause that inspires it.

As between food and tobacco, it must be admitted that men will generally choose tobacco. They did it often in the trenches during the war, when there was any choice, and they have done so on countless occasions of hardship and privation. They will do the same now, regardless of philanthropic considerations.

Very likely a fully rational race of beings would abolish tobacco. We have virtually abolished opium and alcohol, but we are not yet sufficiently evolved to get along without nicotine. And perhaps it is a pardonable weakness. Surely men must have some vices to help them along the rocky, up-hill pathway of virtue.

THE INSPIRED TYPEWRITER.

Says Vicente Blasco Ibanez, the great Spanish novelist, who is now in this country, speaking of methods of literary composition:

"You can dictate a public speech or a lecture or something like that, but you can't dictate a novel. You have to write it yourself. A novelist is like an ostrich; he needs to bury his head in the sand. A typewriter is a great distraction. You could not write poetry on a typewriter, and you could not write a novel on a typewriter."

Maybe Ibanez will change his mind after he has been in America a while. Certain it is that a good many American novels—or at least, what pass for novels in this country—have been written right down on the typewriter out of the authors' own heads, with their own hands. So have many American plays, and even many American poems.

This results largely from the fact that so many American writers have risen to authorship through newspaper work. Nearly all newspaper "copy" in this country is typewritten. Having become accustomed to this mode of composition, a writer naturally keeps it up in more pretentious ways.

It is probably all a question of what a person is used to, anyway. One who has used a typewriter much generally finds that it is a great deal easier to pound the keys than to write by hand. In fact, the hand-writing of a typewriter-addict usually deteriorates for this very reason. The clatter of the machine soon ceases to be a distraction. And there are certain advantages in it that cannot be overlooked. The copy is much more legible and easy to correct, and has so nearly the appearance of printed matter that the author can tell better how it is going to look in its final form. For this reason even poetry is often composed on the typewriter, especially newspaper and magazine verses.

As for dictation, Señor Ibanez may be wrong, too. There is a surprising quantity of "good stuff" being dictated in this country today, fiction included. Poetry is not often dictated; and yet, there is a notable example that the Spanish author seems to have overlooked. Milton dictated every line of "Paradise Lost."

The president of the New York street railway system wants a "flexible fare," something after the fashion of the German war indemnity, to be applied according to the needs of the company from time to time. If adopted by public service corporations generally, it would greatly facilitate the process of revising the C. of L. upward.

A distinguished American surgeon says that doctors are better fitted than legislators or preachers to cure Bolshevism. Can it be that they have discovered a Bolshevik gland or something which can be cut out?

King Albert of Belgium is said to be very tall and straight. A good ruler has to be straight.

NEW YORK LETTER

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK Nov. 1—So clever have the thieves become in the hotel foyers that a woman in one of the most fashionable hotels in town actually lost an ankle wallet the other day. Her mortification was so great that the matter was not reported to the police. She does not know when it happened but when she got home there was a big slit in her skirt and her silk stocking was also ripped and the wallet was gone.

The smoothest crooks from London, Paris, Madrid and South America have suddenly flocked to town where the word has gone forth that the "picking" was easy. It is ridiculous for the hotel managers to think that the "foyer-dick" or hotel detective can cope with them.

The hotel detective for some reason or other can always be spotted a mile away. He wears the mountainous toed shoes, the derby hat cocked to one side and invariably has a bulldog jaw. His name is either Jerry, Terry or Mike. He talks out of the side of his mouth and in the vernacular of the crook. He thinks that is impressive and shows he knows the ropes.

I met one the other night. He is always just two steps behind one of the International crooks. His lingo was about like this: "I'm Jerry to his plant now. I ups and downs his Moll buzzard at noon eats yesterday. She was there with a big chunk of ice on a chain and I gave her the office but she grinned. I trailed her to the hatch and found him waiting." I nodded gravely and with great understanding although it was all Greek to me.

In the meantime satin mustached men who know Thackeray as well as Voltaire and who look as though they had just been poured into immaculate evening clothes are bumping into ladies and gentlemen into hotel lobbies and during the confusion snatching watches, pearl necklaces, purses and other things of value.

There is not even a dead line in Manhattan any more. The crooks work everywhere. They used to stay away from the important hotels and the Waldorf even chased the bond sellers out of Peacock Alley a few years ago. But there are no restrictions now. The barrier is up and the crook is hopping to some gaudy hauls.

From the morning and evening journals here one gets a roseate impression of the life of the Sob Sisters. Their interviews are generally followed or preceded, according to the stories, by the most sumptuous repasts. While some screen hero is putting a Sob Sister wise to all the secrets of his career you read of her dallying with prune surprise or dessicating a juicy chop. Just today I have read of a young lady breakfasting with Doug at 11:30 while hot milk toast, poached eggs and strips of rare bacon were dawdled over. I wish I could give these daily trivialities I write a running underplot of food. But the fact is I'm always hungry and nobody asks me to eat. I paid six dollars and a quarter for a sandwich at the Ritz yesterday and six dollars for dinner for two at the Majestic today.

La Croft Union Mission. Sunday school at 10, Anna Rice superintendent. Preaching at 7:30 by Sam Spencer. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Most dog shops in New York are a blot on the vigilance of the Board of Health. They are foul smelling, unclean and breeding places for the mange and other diseases generally supposed to be the product of filth. So it was a genuine joy to stumble into the cleanest most beautiful dog shop I ever saw on West 46th street between Fifth Avenue and Sixth the other afternoon. In the white enameled window was a large Russian Grey hound sleeping. Inside in glass receptacles were Poms and Pekes and Bostons, and Scotch Terriers, and Collies and not an odor about the place. The attendants were spotless in white spots. Each time I go to a dog store and buy every dog just to turn them loose out in some wild and green spot.

The New Motor Car

The Greatest Improvement In Riding Comfort Since The Introduction of Pneumatic Tires

HERE is a brand new type of car. It solves the problem which has baffled automotive engineers—how to combine riding comfort with light weight and economy.

Our new Three-Point Cantilever Springs make this possible.

These are the first springs of their kind and they are made of chrome vanadium steel. They are exclusive with Overland.

Because of these springs, Overland 4 combines the riding qualities of large heavy, expensive, long wheelbase cars, together with the advantages and economy of small light cars.

With 100-inch wheelbase, Overland 4 has the luxurious riding ease of 130-inch Springbase.

The exclusive, Three-Point Cantilever Springs cushion the car so that it rides well on all roads: they reduce choppy rebounds and side swaying, protect the car from road shocks and prolong its life, minimize twisting or racking of frame and body, enable the car to hold the road better.

The car and passengers ride smoothly as though floating, free from road shocks that the springs ward off.

But this new riding comfort, possible only with these Three-Point Cantilever Springs, is but one of the advantages of Overland 4.

Its light weight makes possible great economy of gasoline and tires.

High quality materials insure durability. All vital parts of the front axle and steering gear and all highly stressed gears and shafts for driving the car are made of alloy steel.

The equipment list of Overland 4 is high grade, including Auto-Lite Starter and Lighting System—Electric Horn—Marshall Divan Upholstery Springs—Demountable Rims—Three Speed Transmission—Slanting Rain Vision Windshield—Tillotson Carburetor—U. S. L. Batteries and many other high quality conveniences.

In every respect Overland 4 is a quality car. The body is all steel, all enamel, the brightest, hardest, most lasting finish.

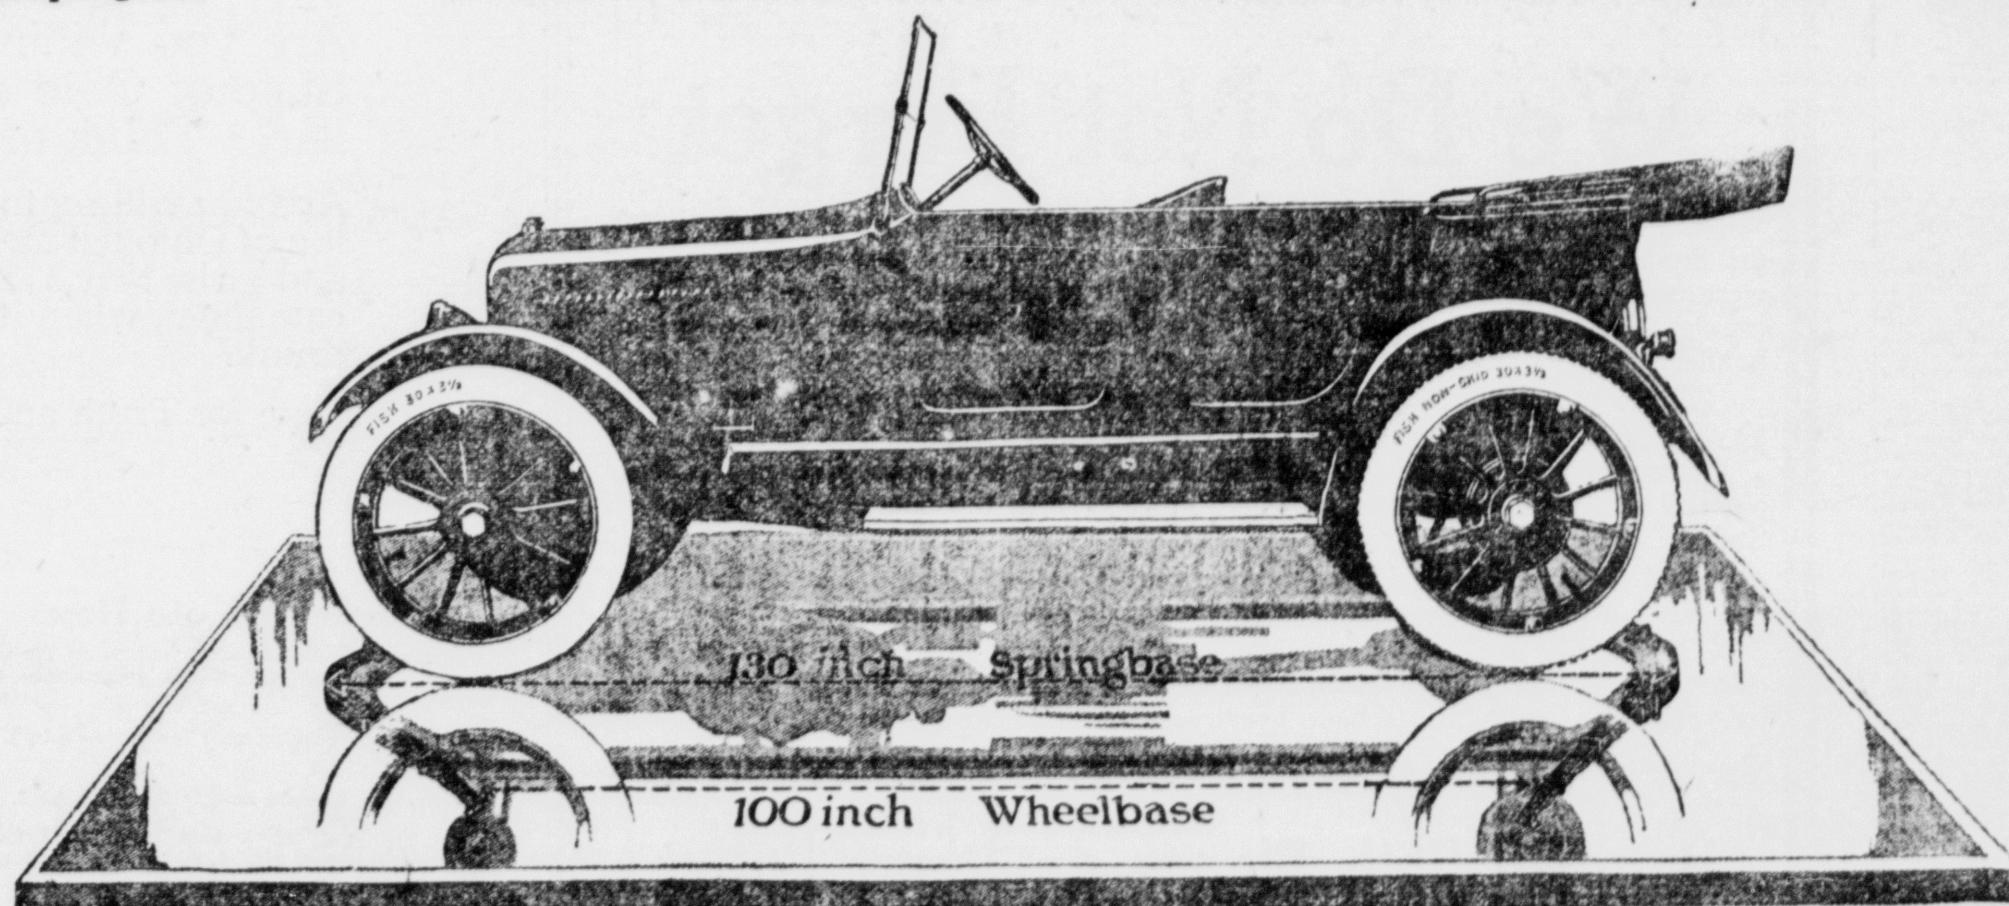

Overland 4 has been tested for two years and more than 250,000 miles over the Rocky Mountains, prairies, through deep mud and scorching deserts—through quick sharp climatic changes. As a result of these tests we were able to judge the car's performance under every condition and to perfect it before offering it to the public.

There is no previous car of any size or price to adequately compare with the character of service Overland 4 introduces.

The farther you ride in it the more you will appreciate it. Come in, see the car and ask for booklet. The demand will be greater than the supply for a long time.

in front of the car, which was moving slowly.

The boy was knocked to the street by one of the fenders. The car was stopped and the lad carried into the office of Dr. H. A. Turk nearby, where an examination was made. No bones were found to be broken and he was able to walk to his home.

WHO WANTS THE SALOON BACK?

HOW WILL THE RETURNED SOLDIER VOTE?

In determining what to do about sustaining the action of the legislature in ratifying the federal amendment there is a consideration which reaches beyond that of mere wet or dry regime.

It may not have occurred to everyone just why a prohibition amendment was suddenly passed by more than a two-third vote of both houses of congress and why forty-five out of forty-eight state legislatures ratified that amendment by more than the necessary two-third vote, in some instances almost unanimously, by both houses. A little reflection will make it clear. The great struggle to save democracy from the cruel Hun was on. Our young men were hastening to the battle front in France, many of them never to return. Then it was learned that the German-American alliance had been doing all in its power to defeat the purpose of our armies and turn the tide of war in favor of our enemies. It was further discovered and is a matter of senate record which no one can doubt or dispute, that the brewers of this country, grown rich under the protection of our government, were willing to destroy the government and had entered into an agreement to finance the German-American alliance in its pro-German and anti-American activities. Is it surprising that the German-American alliance should be suppressed and their financial backers, the brewers, dealt with as they have been?

Now these same brewers come back with the hypocritical plea of fair play to the soldiers. Do they think that either our soldiers or the people of our state have so soon forgotten that while these soldier boys were at the front fighting our battles to save our homes and preserve our democracy these same brewers were paying for the ammunition with which a great organization was shooting at their backs? It is in exceeding poor taste for brewers to talk about fair play to the soldiers after that. It would have been better to have remembered fair play when their lives were in the balance in the great struggle.

It will be remembered that General Pershing asked our government to give him an army of men who think. His request was granted. Men weakened by drink and the vices which go with it were rejected. They were here to vote one year ago. The splendid young men who composed General Pershing's army of "Men who think" are now mostly back and will THINK before they vote. They will not forget the treason of the brewers. They well understand these brewers do not want the saloons back for the benefit of the soldiers but that by them they may rob the soldiers as they would rob others of their dollars.

We Do Not Forget

Ohio brewers would like to have the voters of Ohio forget that these brewers finance the German-Alliance and that large sums of this brewery money were used to help German agents spread their propaganda and hamper this government in its preparations for war with Germany and also to buy German bonds.

Those pro-German brewers have never offered an excuse for their disloyalty.

They even have as their State campaign manager a man who was on their pay roll when they were working hand in hand with the enemies of the United States.

And they are now asking the voters of Ohio to support a proposal to again bring this pro-German beer on the market in our State.

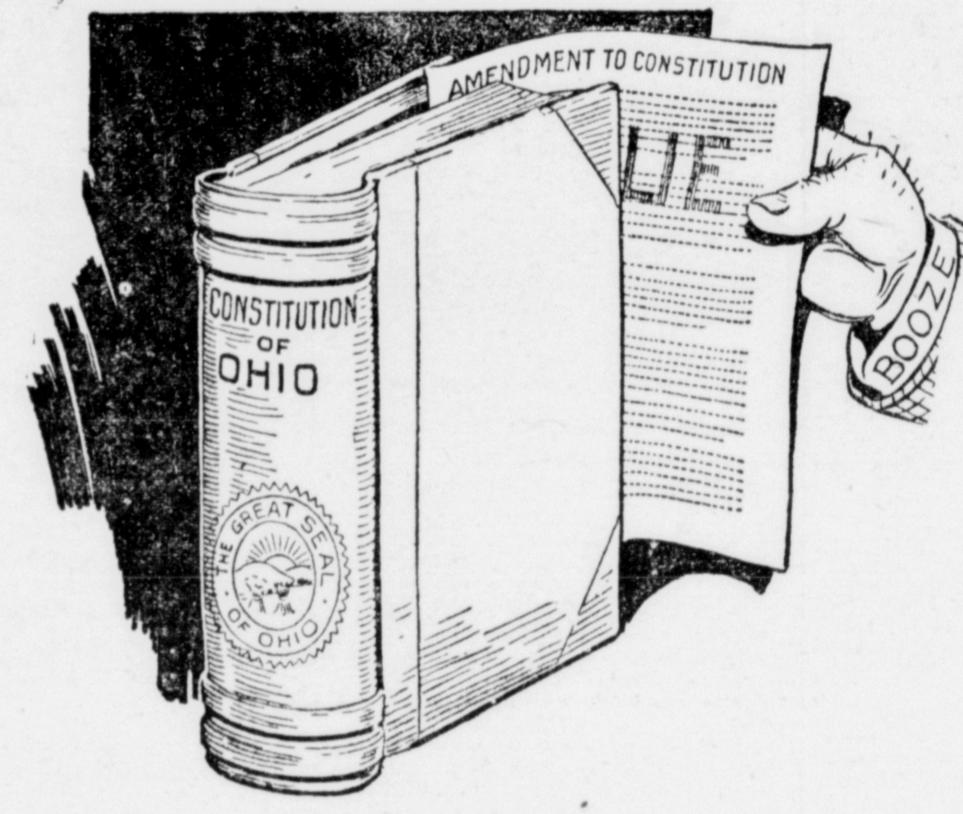

Our soldier dead could not sleep in Flanders' poppy fields nor in any other soil of France or Belgium if we were to thus "break faith" with them by voting to further the selfish, greedy schemes of the brewers.

COAL SHORTAGE IS ACUTE HERE

Miners' Strike Opens With Chester's Supply of Coal Practically Exhausted -- Domestic Consumers Hit.

As a result of the nation-wide strike of coal miners, which became effective Friday midnight, Chester is facing a coal famine Saturday.

There are two local coal dealers and both Saturday admitted that they were without a bushel at their unloading switches. The industrial plants, however, will not be affected by the tie-up, although domestic consumers will suffer.

Lawrence Baxter, one local dealer, stated Saturday morning that he had three car loads of the fuel ordered but that all had been seized by the government. One car load arrived Friday but before it could be unloaded was shifted to sidings where it could not be reached by wagons.

J. W. Bryan, who also deals in coal, has had orders for coal but only one car load has arrived. This car was seized by the government, Friday, before it could be unloaded.

But few Chester families have their winter's supply of coal in store and should cold weather develop, much suffering is feared. Chester can expect no assistance from the East Liverpool dealers who claim to be in the same position as those handling coal on this side.

The American Sheet & Tin Plate company here will be able to operate for a couple of months, at least, without additional shipments, it was announced Saturday morning. Anticipating the strike, large shipments have been coming in for the past few weeks and now the fuel situation will not affect operations there unless the strike should continue for a long time.

The potters will also be able to continue to run as they use gas to fire the boilers and also in the kilns. Unless there becomes a scarcity of gas the plants will be able to continue indefinitely without being affected by the walkout.

CHESTER DELEGATIONS WELCOME WAR VETERANS

More than half of Chester was out yesterday to attend the homecoming celebration given at East Liverpool in honor of the returned service men.

Notwithstanding the heavy rain, which fell just before the noon hour, the crowds from Chester began leaving about 12 o'clock and in spite of the extra service over the Chester line, all cars were crowded during the entire afternoon.

Because of the rain, the boxing bouts and community street dance scheduled for Friday evening, were postponed until Saturday night. The decorations which were arranged for Hallowe'en night are to be left standing. With the weather favorable hundreds from this side will don their costumes and cross the river to attend Saturday night's continuation of the festivities.

Vote "YES" on the Classification Amendment and Reduce Your Taxes

The Man Opposed to Classification Says:

"A man who will lie for Ten Dollars will lie for Ten Cents."

The Fact: In Minnesota in 1910, the last year of the uniform rule in that state, 6,200 persons were returning intangible property for taxation. Under Classification in Minnesota 98,501 persons are returning intangibles for taxation.

The Man Opposed to Classification Says:

"Classification will not bring intangible property out of hiding."

The Fact: What other states have done. Notice the increased revenues collected from intangible property:

	Under Uniform Rule	Under Classification
Baltimore	$ 12,000.00	$ 700,000.00
North Dakota	21,849.34	300,496.92
Connecticut	29,452.06	560,000.00
Minnesota	379,754.00	990,900.65
Kentucky	439,604.43	1,661,987.35

The Man Opposed to Classification Says:

"Classification is an experiment and will prove a failure in Ohio."

The Fact: Connecticut has had Classification for twenty-eight years. Maryland has had Classification for 20 years. Fourteen states have Classification in their constitutions. Only twelve states have the Uniform Rule. Twenty-two states have constitutions permitting any method of taxation. Most states have discarded the Uniform Rule. No state has ever discarded Classification.

Classification never has proved a failure but if it should prove a failure in Ohio it could be repealed either by the General Assembly or by the people themselves under the power of the Initiative. No change in the constitution would be necessary as the pending Classification amendment merely gives to the General Assembly the right to classify property if it wishes to do so.

The Man Opposed to Classification Says:

"By reducing the rates on intangible property under Classification it will be necessary to increase the tax rate on land and homes."

The Fact: The Smith Tax Limit Act prevents an increase in the tax rate on land and homes and always will, unless the Smith Act is repealed by the votes of the people of Ohio. In Kentucky under the Uniform Rule in 1917 owners of homes and farm lands were paying 77 per cent of all taxes collected for state and local purposes. In Kentucky today, under Classification, owners of homes and farm lands are paying only 57 per cent of all taxes collected and the Kentucky State Tax Commission says there will be a further reduction soon.

City man, country man, home owner, wage earner, farmer--all will be benefited by classification of property. The present system is so bad that no system can be worse. Every man should be willing to give Classification a trial.

Vote "Yes" on the Classification Amendment at the polls, November 4. Separate Ballot.

The Orgy of Dress in Paris

V Backs Now Actually Cut to the Waistline, with the Opaque Skirt Ending "Just Below the Knee," and Twenty Thousand Dollars a Year for Clothes is Now a Very Frequent Expenditure, Says an Expert.

Types of the Freak Clothes (Still Short in Spite of Prediction) Worn on Paris Thoroughfares, with Extravagant Jewels.

By Helen Hoffman

FOLLOWING the example of extravagance and pleasure, such as we are witnessing today in other of the belligerent countries where millionaires were created out of the making of war, France today is enjoying a fashion orgy.

In Paris this orgy of clothes is unmistakably French. In brilliance of display and in shocking sums of expenditure, never has this old world witnessed anything to approach it.

Even Marie Antoinette, whose name goes down through the ages, always mentioned in the same breath with the final and tragic struggle of the French people to support her extravagances, never dreamed of such a situation. It must be said to the credit of the beautiful but unwise consort of Louis XVI. that by comparison with present day life in France, the young Queen was indeed modest in her dress and luxurious requirements.

Looking over the whole range of feminine spenders in this country, I cannot recall a single American woman who is likely to admit spending such a huge sum as $100,000 on her clothing.

But in France this past season— Oh, well, I will let Charles Kurzman, a New York authority, who has just returned from the fashion centres where was gathered the beauty, the wealth, the aristocracy of the French republic, tell about it.

After the French Revolution

"After the French Revolution the same thing happened," said Mr. Kurzman. "People were heartily sick of bloodshed, and the anxiety and misery of those awful days they tried to put out of their memory by plunging gayly into life's other extremes, the gayeties and brilliance of an extravagant society."

"If spending money is synonymous with happiness then the French people, following the past five years of terrible warfare, have succeeded very well indeed," said Mr. Kurzman.

"This spending was not confined to clothes," he said. "I saw 1,000,000 francs change hands at a gambling table at a prominent summer resort last August. All the famous French seaside places were crowded to overflowing, and while last summer one could get a room at Deauville for $20 a day, it was impossible to secure accommodations this season for anything like that price. A table d'hôte dinner at the Casino cost $15, and a breakfast of one roll and coffee $1."

"In the question of clothes, France reached the high record the past season, both in scantiness of attire and in price.

Over $5000 for One Gown

"Just before I left France, a well known Parisian house sold a broadtail costume for 28,000 francs. While it is true that clothes are almost double the price they were before the war, such a figure is quite new even in the annals of high clothing expenditures at this time in Paris."

Mr. Kurzman gave a vivid description of "smart" life at the summer resorts of France, and of course he was speaking of the French people, almost exclusively, for until peace is actually signed passport restrictions for people of those countries who formerly made Paris the gay cosmopolitan city of the world, had not been lifted; that is to say, not to any extent, and especially not for the purpose of enjoyment.

"The few Americans who were left in France, and who were abundantly supplied with money to be able to enjoy the life at the seashore resorts, expressed amazement at the Babylonian

"American women at the French resorts were amazed at the scantiness of attire observed on the French women—dancing frocks with a V-cut back to the waistline, and almost as low in front."

"Dancing skirts are very short—a little below the knees."

atmosphere, so to speak, that prevailed at these places.

"Americans of great wealth and social position seemed plain and puritanical in their dress by comparison.

"As we sat among the gay diners at Deauville, and someone would point out a French woman who was noted for her splendid wardrobe as well as for the sums of money she spent on it, American women would gasp with surprise when told that such and such a woman spent $100,000 and more on her dress in a year.

"There must be at least 500 women in France who spend this much every year on their clothing. I know one woman who has seven very wonderful fur coats. I know another woman who wears a long chain of pearls valued at $750,000. Many women wore precious ropes of pearls wound about their arms, serpentine fashion.

"But these things do not surprise me. I am accustomed to French women and their love for dress. There is no question that the French woman is the best dressed woman in the world.

"American women, I hope, will not take exception to this, for I do not mean to reflect upon their good taste in dress. What I do mean, however, is the great care, the great amount of time the French women lavish on their dress; the great amount of study they give to it. And naturally all this is certain to get results.

Compared with American Women

"The American woman wears beautiful clothes and she wears them well. She has a figure on which smart clothes show off to advantage. But the French woman studies the effect of the clothes she wears. She gives great consideration to the shoes, the hats, the gloves, the hats, the wraps and the jewels she wears. All these harmonize beautifully. She is exquisitely gowned from the tips of her toes to her carefully studied coiffure, which suits her type exactly, bringing out all the good little points of her hair, features, eyes and complexion, and softening any little defects she may possess in the line of beauty.

"I often wish American women would take more time for their dress. They would get better results. It is the same with everything of course. Fine art is not accomplished in a hurry.

American Women Most Adaptable

"But the American woman is most adaptable, and she is entirely at variance with her French sister in some matters of dress. For instance, American women, wearing smart gowns at the French resorts, were amazed, and then amused at the scantiness of attire observed on the French women. Sleeveless gowns, dancing frocks with a V cut back to the waistline, and almost as low in front, until I heard a dancing partner remark: 'There is no place I can put my hand on the back of your gown, because I can't notice anything of a gown.'

"Such a style would hardly go in this country. In France, set in the surroundings, somehow one gets accustomed to it and doesn't think it out of the ordinary.

"These gowns of latest Parisian design, of course are imported here, but they are adapted to the wearer. For instance, the back may be filled in with tulle or metallic embroidery, or some soft stuff.

"Dancing skirts are very short—a little below the knees, that is to say the silk underskirt is; the lace flounce which falls over this may be a few inches longer.

A Figure from the Autumn Races.

HERBERT JOHNSON

One of the Astonishing Varieties of "Novel" Gowns That Made the Early Autumn Memorable.

"There is one very good reason, I suppose, why French women spend more money on their clothes than any other women. They have more places to wear them. For instance, women dominate France. They always have, from their queens and the mistresses of kings down. That is why France, while backward in many other lines of development, rules the world of fashion.

"For example, attendance at the race track in France is not purely for the sport as it is in this country. People go to see the wonderfully gowned and jewelled women. It is the same thing at the operas, and often a great art exhibit, a secondary attraction, is that of the women visitors.

Dressing, the French Woman's Life

"French women who dress extravagantly do little else than dress and amuse themselves. Life in this country is different. Few American women spend the same amount of time as their French sisters in their boudoirs.

"Yes, France has thrown off the mourning and the misery of five years of war," said Mr. Kurzman. "And she is doing it magnificently."

American women who read this will have their own opinion. At this juncture in the affairs of a troubled world, they may not wish to give more time to their clothes. That is another question. I have simply wished to put before you the astonishing facts about France. If you decide that France's orgy of dress expenditure amounts to a scandal the facts will have served a purpose. Yet you may wish to listen to Mr. Kurzman's advice, where it bears on questions of care and taste.

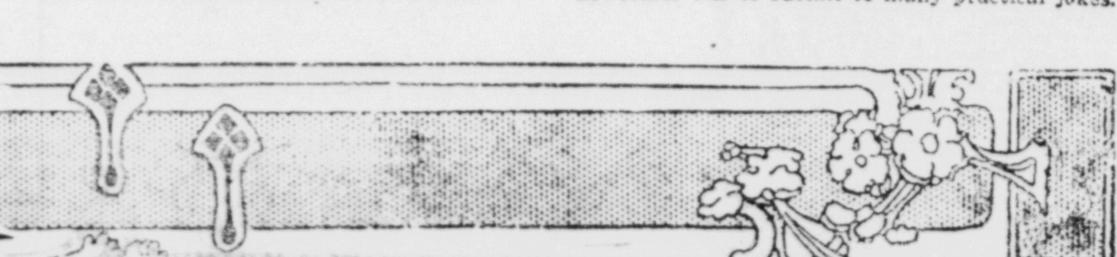

Hindu Hospitality

WITH Hindu life is bound up its traditional duty of hospitality. It is the duty of a householder to offer a meal to any stranger who may come before midday and ask for one. The mistress of the house does not sit down to her meals until every member is fed, and as sometimes her food is all that is left, she does not take her meal until after midday lest a hungry stranger should come and claim one.

The position of the mistress, though one of great authority, is also of considerable responsibility; she has the upbringing of the children, boys and girls; their religious instruction, the care of their material welfare; it is she who arranges their weddings and often determines their future career. Her rule is autocratic, but based on love and understanding.

After the mistress of the house comes the younger women; the daughter enjoys great liberty and is a chartered favorite, for she leaves soon after marriage, and the daughter-in-law is made much of; the new home must be made sweet to her, so that she may not feel the change, and is she not to be the mother of your grandchildren, sweeter to you in your declining years than ever your own children were when you were younger?

Life at home is not so dull to the young women as you may imagine; there is plenty of innocent fun and amusement; when the husband of a newly married daughter visits the home of his wife, the wife's girl friends, her sisters and cousins, are all aglow with excitement, and the newcomer has to submit to many practical jokes.

40,300 STATE MINERS STRIKE

Figures given out by C. F. Keeney of district No. 17, United Mine Workers of America, show that of the 41,300 organized miners in West Virginia all but 700 who are working under a new contract, obey the strike call Saturday.

No signs of disorder were evident in any of the fields and President Keeney said that he had pledges from the union miners that no disturbances would occur. The regulars stationed here were ready to answer any call.

Coal operators announced that their mines would remain open and that any man who wished to work would be protected. Operators claim that there is much dissatisfaction among the miners, many of whom they say oppose the strike.

With few exceptions the mines in the Wheeling district were idle Saturday. The Creek Steel mill of the Whitaker-Glessner company in Wheeling was the first industry to close because of lack of coal. The company operated its own mine.

75,000 STATE MINERS STRIKE

Approximately 75,000 West Virginia miners are idle Saturday as a result of the nation-wide coal strike of organized coal miners, which became effective Friday night.

Although none of the mines in the state was closed Saturday, very few if any of the miners reported for work. The operators announced Friday that their mines would be ready for operation as usual Saturday if any of the men "wished to comply with President Wilson's request that the men continue at work at the existing scale."

The state association figures show the following: Number of mines to be affected in the organized districts, 466; production about 3,400,000 a month; number of union miners in non-union fields, who may also walk out in response to the strike call, 8,000. The union fields are: Kanawha, including Coal River, 126 mines, employing 12,000 men; New River field, 130 mines, employing 8,000 miners; Fairmont field, 150 mines, employing 15,000 miners; Piedmont, or Randolph, Tucker county field, 60 mines, employing 5,000 miners.

The non-union fields are the Logan or Guyan Valley field, with 107 mines, employing 12,000 miners; Thacker field, with 85 mines, employing 9,000 miners; Pocahontas field, with 105 mines, employing 18,000 miners; Tug River field, with 50 mines, employing 5,000 men; Winding Gulf field, with 75 mines, employing 7,500 miners; Elk River field, with 20 mines, employing 2,000 miners, a total of 442 non-union miners employing about 52,000 miners.

The approximate total monthly production of each of the organized fields is as follows: Kanawha, 700,000 tons; New River, 625,000 tons; Fairmont, 1,660,000 tons; Piedmont field, 415,000 tons. In the unorganized fields the monthly production is given as follows: Logan field, 1,250,000 tons; Thacker, 500,000 tons; Pocahontas, 1,500,000 tons; Tug River, 330,000 tons; Winding Gulf, 660,000 tons, and Elk River, 100,000 tons.

VETERANS BEAT GRANDS AND WIN CITY GRID TITLE

WORLD WAR MEN WINNERS, 12-0 IN SEA OF MUD

Former Fighters for Uncle Sam Register Two Touchdowns—
Battering Rain Attack Smashes Forward Line of Grands—
Only Few Forward Passes Used—Grands Successful But Once.

East Liverpool's champions of the great world war, men who trudged through mud and mire on foreign soil, became the football champions of the city Friday afternoon when they turned back the onslaught of the Grand Athletics, 12-0.

Again they trudged through mud and mire, this time the soil of West End park. Again they fought for big stakes, and once more they conquered. But not without a grand and glorious struggle.

About 1,000 loyal fans defied the "flu" pneumonia, colds and fevers and trudged backward and forward on the field of battle with every movement of their favorites. Rain fell during the early part of the afternoon and made the entire field a mass of mud. It continued to sprinkle off and on during the progress of the game but not until the engagement had run its length did the crowd leave the field. At one period during the fourth quarter the rain came down in torrents but the Vets, then on their way to their final touchdown, smashed and battered the fast weakening Grand line and just before the whistle blew, Kapp, on the six-yard line, spluttered out some numbers through his facial adornment of terra firma, grabbed the old pigskin and oozed through a muddy, sticky mass of humanity for the second score.

The Grands will ask for a chance for revenge. This is not to be doubted. The fact that the Veterans outweighed them by several pounds Friday apparently is sufficient reason for their assertions that "on a dry field it would have been different."

The Grands started proceedings by kicking to their opponents. The Grands were unable to advance the ball and the Vets started toward the Grand goal line from the thirty-yard line.

A first down was made and three more on the next four and the Grands held fast. And then a peculiar play was made which came within an ace of scoring for the Vets. Kapp called for a forward pass. The pigskin came back and slipped from Kapp's fingers. It slid back of several yards. With the Grand forward closing in on him, Kapp hurriedly grabbed the ball, ducked two tacklers about ten yards back of his own line and hurled the muddy oval through the air. Keeter was laying close to the Grand line. He made a mighty leap for the ball but it slid through his fingers. It would have meant a sure score had he been able to keep it. It was a good try and considering the slippery sides of the oval, would have been nothing short of wonderful if he had gathered in the fling.

The quarter ended with the ball on the Grands' forty-yard line. Again securing the pigskin the Veterans, with renewed strength, started a smashing, banging attack which netted them big gains through the Grand line. The Grands for some unknown reason, apparently weakened. The Vets plowed through time after time and were not stopped until Kapp crossed the goal line.

The Vets kicked to the Grands again and got the ball from them and started to the goal once more. With the ball about five yards from the line the half ended, preventing another score.

It began to rain in the second half and both teams slowed up considerably. The official scorer lost all track of substitutions. Every man on either side was unrecognizable.

It was impossible to distinguish the "who's who." But the play went on through the downpour of rain. In the last part of the third and the fourth periods the Grands were unable to stop the battering rain attacks of the Veterans and Smith and Kapp, carrying the ball the most of the time, hit the line consistently for from 3 to 7 yards at a clip. F. E. Moore was handicapped in his operations by the muddy field. But in spite of this he pulled a sensational end run in the third for about 25 yards. McLaughlin and Steadman went in in the third to relieve Kapp and Smith. McLaughlin called the numbers and continued the successful methods of Kapp, and Steadman Moore and Wheatley plunged through the line for big gains.

The Grand backs were light and were unable to get anywhere in the mud. The entire team put up a plucky fight.

DONIE BUSH AND EVERETT SCOTT FIGURE IN FIRST WINTER LEAGUE TRADE RUMOR

Donie Bush, swinging on the ball, and Everett Scott

By N. E. BROWN.

When the dust is on the baseball and the bats are in the rack, and the college boys are jumping on the star left tackle's back, Oh, it's then's the time the ball fans like to gather round the stove. And make the big leagues over, trading Roush for Kerr or Grove.

All of which little outburst is a prelude to the announcement that the first winter trade report is buzzing around.

A Detroit scribe, being duly sworn, deposes and saith that Donie Bush is to be swapped for Everett Scott, shortstop of the Boston Red Sox.

Scott, it is said, has announced that he will not play in the east next season because he wants to be near his home in Indiana. Mrs. Scott has been wanting him to make the change.

Bush was anxious to break away from Detroit last spring, according to rumors at that time, but finally came to terms with the Tigers and American league fans know that all season.

THREE ELEVENS PUT TO TEST

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Two of the three undefeated elevens in the race for the western conference football championship will be put to severe tests today when Chicago gives battle to Illinois at Urbana and Wisconsin fades Minnesota at Madison. Neither Chicago nor Wisconsin has been beaten. Ohio State, the third undefeated aggregation, will be idle.

While interest in today's contest will center about the games at Urbana and Madison, some keen competition is promised in the conference game between Northwestern and Michigan at Ann Arbor, the Iowa-South Dakota combat at Iowa City, the Notre Dame-Indiana clash at Indianapolis and the game between Purdue and Michigan Aggies at Lafayette.

Despite its defeat last Saturday in Chicago, although the Maroons will be confident of "coming back" against enter the game a strong favorite. The contest will be a home-coming affair, and preparations have been made to handle a crowd of 20,000 persons.

Reports from Madison favor Wisconsin to be returned the winner over Minnesota. Iowa virtually eliminated Minnesota from the Big Ten race a week ago. The Wisconsin eleven has been showing rapid improvement and is expected to be at the top of its form today.

Northwestern, with the return of its stars, is expected to hold Michigan to a low score. The powerful Notre Dame eleven is favored to triumph over Indiana, while Purdue is expected to down the Michigan Aggies. Iowa expects to have no trouble in bagging victory from South Dakota.

4,000 FREIGHT CARS FIND WAY BACK TO GERMANY

BRUSSELS.—Belgium has lost 4,000 of the freight and passenger cars she received from Germany after the armistice, according to the newspaper.

In the course of traffic these cars found their way back to Germany, where, the newspaper alleges, the German labels were removed and the cars again became the property of the Germans. As a result, it is understood that no more cars from Germany will be allowed to re-cross the Belgian frontier.

W. & J. WILL NOT PLAY W. HENRY

WASHINGON, Pa., Nov. 1.—Manager John H. Murdock Jr. of the W. & J. football team, announced tonight that Wilbur Henry, star tackle of the Presidents, would not play in the game on Nov. 8 with the University of Pittsburgh.

The statement was issued because of a divergence of opinion as to the probability of Henry playing and the reasons for any action in his case the red and black authorities might take.

"We have decided to keep Henry out of the Pittgame," reads Murdock's statement. "Through uncontrolled sources, premature publicity was given the faculty action, contrary to our desire. We conferred with the University of Pittsburgh authorities on the subject and they demanded that Henry be kept out of the annual game on Nov. 8. We suggested that inasmuch as Henry had been declared eligible under a precedent established by the Western Conference and a majority of the colleges and collegiate organizations which nullified the S. A. T. C. season as a year of competition, the question was left to arbitration.

"We offered to leave the matter to Dr. James A. Babbitt, chairman of the central board of the inter-collegiate body, or to any individual or group of men of equal standing in the collegiate world. Pitt refused such arbitration suggestions. While we are still convinced that Henry has a perfect right to play against Pitt on Nov. 8, we have decided to hold him out of that game to save an unpleasant controversy."

From All Parts of Our Beloved Country the Pilgrims Are Coming to See the New Passion Play
STAGED BY DAVID BELASCO

Jether, Son of Jesse.
Tisha, Daughter of Joy, Siren of Sin, who lures this boy on to ruin, dishonor and destruction

THE BIGGEST DRAMATIC SPECTACLE ON EARTH!

"The Wanderer"

Written by Maurice V. Samuels

Presented by F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest.

Millions of people have visited Oberammergau to see the wonderful Passion Play performed by the simple peasants. Thousands of people will visit the NEW Oberammergau to see the NEW Passion Play, "The Wanderer," at the Ceramic Theatre. "THE WANDERER" is the greatest aid to real religion the stage has ever presented as an adjunct of the church. The story of the play is taken from the Parable of the Prodigal Son of the Bible. The scenes are laid in the Holy Land and in Jerusalem three thousand years ago. The young boy, Jether, demands his portion, goes forth into the world, falls into the clutches of the siren, spends his substance in riotous living, and broken down and in rags, returns home as a beggar, only to win through A MOTHER'S UNDYING LOVE the forgiveness and the happiness which await all who have sinned and who truly repent.

FOR HATH NOT THE MASTER SAID: "THAT JOY SHALL BE IN HEAVEN OVER ONE SINNER THAT REPENTETH MORE THAN OVER NINETY AND NINE JUST PERSONS, WHICH NEED NO REPENTANCE."

See this great play, beautifully staged, and presented by a company of 100 people, including many of the greatest actors on the American stage.
